K. A. CASSIDY - DIDSBURY

Mountain View M.D. Purchase Office Bldg.

The question of the location of the municipal office was settled at the meeting of the council of the Mountain View Municipality held on Thursday last, when a by-law was passed to purchase from Mr. K. A. Cassidy, the old Bank of Montreal building at Didsbury, to be used as office for the municipality.

A by-law was also passed to sell the old Westerdale office to the Town of Didsbury.

The secretary reported that material had arrived for the building of bridges between Secs. 22 and 27-28-3-5, west of Crossfield; south of Sec. 5-29-27-4; east of Crossfield; between Secs. 21 and 22-33-4-5, east of Crossfield; and between 21 and 22-33-4-5 west of Olds. The bridge will be built by the Dept. of Public Works.

A communication was read confirming the appointment of C. E. Reither as auditor.

A complaint was received that parties were dumping rubbish at the cut banks on the Little Red Deer west of Olds. This being one of the beauty spots of the district, the council decided to take steps to prohibit this practice.

A by-law was passed under the Domestic Animals Act, to prohibit any domestic animals being at large in any part of the municipality.

A delegation was received asking that the road east of Mowat school be gravelled for 5 miles. The residents of the district offered donations of $1,500.00 towards the expense. It was decided to accept the donation and to gravel that stretch of road.

It was decided to purchase a gravel pit 13 miles east of Olds. W. M. Thurlow was appointed as the third weed inspector.

A grant of $125.00 was made to the Olds Fish & Game Assn., to assist in their campaign for the irradiation of crows and magpies.

A resolution was passed to call for tenders for the sale of the Beaver Dam and Crossfield offices.

It was decided to purchase a "tumbling bug" for use by the road crew.

One tax consolidation was approved and pay sheets and accounts were passed.

The City Of London

THE CITY OF LONDON is frequently called "the heart of the Empire", and it is best known to the majority of people as the scene of many historic events, and as the home of the British Parliament. London is, indeed, a city of great historic interest, but it is also an important industrial centre, and a busy port. In the years before the war, the value of goods brought into Britain through the port of London, was greater than that brought into any other sea port in the United Kingdom. The city's industrial output was also great in the pre-war period, when it comprised almost one-quarter of the industrial production of the United Kingdom. A highly developed port and industrial city, London has also been known for centuries as one of the great financial centres of the world.

Plans Are Made For Rebuilding

The ancient "city" of London has its own corporate existence, dating from mediaeval times. It has an area of only 617 acres and a population of about 9,000. This is the domain of the Lord Mayor, whose title originated in the year 1191. Around the "city" are grouped the various districts making up Greater London, which has a population of more than 5,000,000. The great industrial expansion of London in the last twenty years has given rise to many problems of housing, recreation and transport. Before the war, extensive measures were being taken to provide for construction and development. Bomb damage has caused these projects to be greatly expanded, and much thought is now being put into plans for reconstruction.

History Rich In Tradition

From earliest times, London has been closely associated with the history of Britain and of the Empire. Most people of British origin like to think of it as a great centre of national culture, and to dwell on a past. It has a history which is rich in interest and tradition, and in spite of the heavy damage done by German bombs, most of its famous landmarks still remain. Its treasures in the realms of art and literature are also preserved for coming generations. However, the London of the future will be a city from which slum areas have been cleared, to be replaced by well-planned housing projects. Further industrial development is anticipated, and it is expected that the progress of the last twenty years will continue when the war is ended. Thousands of service men and women from Canada and other parts of the Empire, have visited London during the past four years and have come to know it well. We are living in a world of changing values and shifting political concepts, but when the war is ended, London will still remain "the heart of the Empire".

A Useful Hint

How To Cut Bread So Loaf Will Be Kept Even

What a heating some loaves of bread take! Four slices off the end and they're as crooked as a snake fence. Try slicing evenly down to a thin crisp crust. Easy does it. Hold the loaf on its side . . . the side crust is usually firmer . . . then with a sharp knife saw . . . don't cut. Watch the side toward you and if the slice is straight then the rest of the piece of bread will be too.

Consider The Onion

Scientists Discover That This Vegetable Is Good For You

It is odd that scientists have just got around to discovering what grandma knew 40 or 50 years ago—that onions are good for you. The scientists have found in the onion what news dispatches call a "mysterious bacteria-destroying substance" which operates in different fashion from other recently discovered substances.

This may have been a mystery to grandma, too, but sufficient for her was the knowledge that steak smothered with fried onions was better for her men folks than a visit to the doctor.

In recent years, with vitamins running from A to G in vogue, the onion has suffered from comparison with other vegetables. In any table of values it ranked far below such vegetables as kale and broccoli and carrots. Onions, it seemed, were doing us harm and short on vitamins. The most recent discovery provides the explanation: the onion has been packed so full of valuable medicaments that there was no room for vitamins. New York Sun.

Surplus For Export

Arrangements Made To Send Canadian White Beans To Britain

Arrangements have been completed for export to Britain of the 1944 crop surplus of Canadian white beans, the special products board announced. The export price will be based on a price of $3.60 per bushel for the grower for No. 1 beans. This will mean that beans exported will be worth 50 cents a bushel more than beans sold at prices established for the domestic market. It is hoped to provide at least 560,660 bushels for the export market. 3579

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—I had my dinner in a restaurant and when I asked for another order of butter they refused to give it to me. Is this right?
A—The restaurant was correct in refusing you. No second orders of butter, tea or coffee are allowed. Each person should have no more than three lumps of sugar upon request.

Q—I am enclosed ration book No. 4 which my son received when the new books were issued. He has now joined the army. Was I right in sending the book to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, or should I have sent it to his army headquarters?
A—Your son will not require this ration book in the army and you were quite correct in returning it. When he has leave, he will be issued special ration cards.

Q—My daughter was 12 years old one week after ration book No. 4 was distributed. How can I get tea and coffee coupons for her?
A—If she was 12 years of age on or before April 12th the tea and coffee coupons should have been left in her book when issued. If they were removed we would advise you to get in touch with your Local Ration Board. However, any child who becomes 12 years of age after April 12th must wait until another ration book is issued to be eligible for tea or coffee coupons.

Q—Can a blacksmith raise the price of shoeing from 25 cents to 50 cents and if so, how shoe from 50 cents to 75 cents?
A—No, a blacksmith cannot legally charge his charges above the prices he charged for the same services during the basic period in 1911, unless he has received specific permission to do so.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Meet In Italy

Brothers From England Have Serviced In Widely Separated Places

A Shirley soldier now in the Middle East was riding on a truck down an Italian road when suddenly it came to a halt, reports the Birmingham Mail. Another soldier on foot walked round to the back to investigate the truck's contents. "Eh, you," he said to the fellow Tommy, "moving there and let's see what you've got." Langually the man in the truck turned round and then nearly fell out as he exclaimed—"Good heavens, Norman, where did you spring from?" They were brothers. Their names are Sergeant Syd and Corporal Norman Roberts of Cranmore Road, Shirley, serving with the R.A.S.C. The sergeant enlisted in January, 1940, and the corporal in September, 1939. The former was in France, Iraq, and Egypt before moving across North Africa and so into Sicily, while the other, after being posted to Egypt in 1939, saw service at El Alamein, Tobruk and Crete. They had not met since the outbreak of war.

Private—Well, sir, we camouflaged the gun before lunch and now we can't find it.

Husband—Well, he looked so pleased when I asked him for you that I simply couldn't resist it.

Voice—Which one is that?

Finance Minister's Statement About Sugar For Canning Is Explained

In explanation of the statement made recently by Finance Minister (Isley in Ottawa that 23 pounds of sugar would be available for canning for each person in a household, this total includes not only canning sugar but sugar which may be obtained with the "D" preserves coupons.

Ten pounds of sugar will be available by using the first 10 "K" coupons in the old ration book, five of which may be used after May 25, the other five after July 6. There will be no expiry date on these coupons.

Thirteen pounds of sugar to make up the total 23, may be obtained with the "D" preserves coupons, if these coupons have not already been used to purchase canned fruits and preserves. If a person uses the "D" coupons to buy preserves, then they cannot be used for sugar. But the overall total of sugar which could be bought is 23 pounds.

Largest Drug Store In Canada Operated By Canadian Army Corps Is Doing A Big Job

A SMALL, rectangular box lay on its side on the filthy floor, where a Japanese guard had flung it a moment before. One of a small band of Canadian soldiers—prisoners of war taken at Hong Kong with many more—moved over to where it fell. The remainder of the hollow-eyed ragged group watched closely. He walked across the straw-covered floor and turned the box over. "From Central Medical Stores, Ottawa," he read aloud. "Here it is, fellows—'medicine'!"

They gathered around. In a few minutes the lid was off and the contents, carefully lifted out, were being excitedly passed around. First plain bandages, an assortment of drugs, iodine, they knew that by sight—a box that said "sulfa guanidine"—and a box that contained the precious words "Prisoner of War Vitamin Tablets."

There was much more—vacines, aspirin tablets, various antiseptics and medical supplies of almost every type. It meant life to the group of Canadian soldiers who had thus far survived the treatment of the Japanese internment camp. That is a grim and harsh scene. It could have been taken from any Japanese concentration camp shortly after Hong Kong. Some of the prisoners lived—some did not. But the survivors will remember for all time that inspection "Central Medical Stores" that appeared on their regular shipments. This largest "Drug store" in the Dominion of Canada, occupying five large buildings in Ottawa keeps the men and women of Canada's three services wherever they may be provided with all types of medical supplies at all times.

Everytime the fighting men of Canada's Army make a move in the far away European battlefields, the Medical Stores are called upon to plan, as carefully as the formula of attack itself—the steady and regular movement of invaluable surgical and medical supplies to the men in the front line. Although it isn't operated quite like a corner drug store it is big business with the Central Medical Stores. They do it in large figures, shipping out an average of approximately 1,000,000 pounds of medical supplies a month.

Operated by men of the Canadian Army Medical Corps, it constitutes more than just a job. It's one of the most important industries of the war—and one that receives few plaudits and little fanfare. They supply everything from the age-old standard remedies like opium salts and castor oil to penicillin, the "wonder drug," and the latest in vitamin tablets.

It has risen from the stage where there were less than 100 shipments in the first year of war to where there are now more than 5,000 and apart from shipping 1,000,000 pounds of medical supplies a month overseas, they constantly experiment in their drug section to find new formulae and to improve the ones now in use.

White beeswax and oil of almond, for instance, are now hard to obtain, and they were essential ingredients in the original formula for cold cream. So pharmacists for Central Medical Stores came up with a new formula not using either the beeswax or oil of almond and it has been recognized by the Food and Drug Laboratory of the Department of Pensions and National Health as superior to the original products.

These Army druggists have also produced an ointment for the prevention of skin rash—a new surgical dusting powder that has proven more effective in the field than anything used in the past—and so on. At the Central Medical Stores the market is practically cornered as far as the use of penicillin is concerned. Quinine and all narcotics can be found at the stores, but are scarce elsewhere in Canada. "The servicemen and women get the absolute best," the officer in charge says. "And they get things which are virtually unobtainable in civil life."

The stores continually make supplies available to the Red Cross Society and the Russian Relief Committee, and very regularly supply a compound vitamin tablet to all troops in the battle zones, for the correction of nutritional deficiencies caused by the lack of sunshine, fresh

Great Help To Doctors

Many Volunteers Endured Torture To Make Pain Map Possible

Twenty-six physicians, medical students and nurses who voluntarily endured having their flesh and bones pierced by drills and needles without benefit of anaesthetic have made possible a pain map of the arms and legs.

The map helps doctors locate the point of origin of many undiagnosed pains. Often the hurt may be stopped quickly by a local anaesthetic which hits squarely the centre of irritation.

Most painful operation in the map making was the drilling of the bones with a diamond-pointed shaft about the diameter of a darning needle. The pain was greatest as the diamond point passed through the thin membrane surrounding the bone. Least painful was the pushing of needles through the muscles.

The volunteers not only had to endure the pain but also to describe it accurately enough so it could be evaluated by others and charted. They broke into sweats. Their faces blanched. Some were nauseated. Some required medical attention for a couple of days thereafter.

The work was done by Dr. Verne T. Inman and Dr. J. B. de C. Saunders of San Francisco. Pain which originates deep in the bone, or next to the bones, apparently radiates far up and down the arm or leg, sometimes the full length.

The arm may become sore from wrist to shoulder from a needle-point injury.

The map shows five long, irregular wedge-shaped areas of the arm and six in the leg. A deeply seated pain, Inman and Saunders report, is likely to radiate only within the particular area of its origin. The chart thus helps the physician to locate the origin, much as a national map with state boundaries simplifies the location of state points.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

In the old days young Lochinvar made a hit with the girls because he could tread a measure. He'd make a bigger hit with them today if he could retreat a tire, says the Toronto Star.

Medicine Goes To War

The Age Of Electricity Expected To Bring A New Era Of Comfort For The Man On The Farm

THE "age of electricity" is about to catch up with Canada's wilds and bring a new era of wealth, health and comfort to the lonely farmer and his wife, a survey revealed. Every province in Canada was drafting large-scale schemes to harness water power as post-war measures aimed at encouraging establishment of new industries and to provide the energy needed to exploit the country's rich resources lying untouched in the woods, under the ground and on virgin land.

The advent of electricity, recognized by farm leaders as one of the most pressing needs after the war, will revolutionize life on the farm as it is known today, with its coal oil lamps, hand pumps, scrubbing board and other antiquated hand-powered equipment.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates that there are 733,000 farms in Canada, and only 20 per cent. of the people living on them enjoy the advantages of electricity, common-place conveniences taken for granted by office and factory workers in the cities alike.

A few of the farmers have used ingenuity to obtain power through use of windmills and gasoline engines, but the others are still struggling along with primitive methods.

Farm leaders point out that electricity to the farmer will mean that he will no longer have to stumble around in the early morning winter darkness with a lantern, filling pails at a hand pump, the temperature below zero. His home and his barn will be lighted at a turn of a switch eliminating the ever-present danger of fire from accidentally upset lamps, and he will be able to let electricity do much of the labor on the farm now performed at the sweat of the brow.

Electricity will enable the farmer to go a long way towards adopting an 8-hour work-day for himself, since it will cut the time of doing many of his chores to a fraction of what it takes today.

Instead of spending hours in his workshop sharpening implements laboriously with a handle file or hand-driven stone, for instance the farmer will be able to turn on a motor to do the work for him.

He will also be able to use electricity to pump water from his wells for his household and his livestock. Instead of buying his chicks from wholesalers or setting eggs under hens, he will be able to set up his own incubators.

An electrically-driven sawmill will cut all the wood and lumber he needs in a matter of hours, without any back-breaking toil.

To the farm wife, electricity will bring the vacuum cleaner to supplant the broom, the electric stove to replace the wood box, the electric washing machine and iron to replace the old-fashioned iron and scrubbing board, the refrigerator to preserve her food stocks. She won't have to worry about her children peering over her back by lamp light afraid that Johnny will strain his eyes.

Electricity, too, will bring the radio within reach of the poorest of farm families by eliminating the need of expensive batteries and make them feel that they are not actually forgotten by the march of time.

A Real Worry

No Haggips Available In Scotland To Equip Regiment Bands

There is a scarcity of haggips in Scotland. Mayor Kenneth Dobie has been combing the country for weeks in search of haggips needed urgently by the King's Scottish Borderers and Dumfriesshire's own regiment which have been commissioned to form bagpipe bands.

"How can our boys march into Berlin without haggips?" the mayor muttered glumly.

ROMANCE OF RUBBER

Necessity is the mother of invention, and this old proverb never proved itself more true than in the case of the manufacture of synthetic rubber in Canada. The story of this great achievement by Canadian scientists and Canadian industry is surely one of the most romantic stories arising from the present war.—Ottawa Citizen.

Britain's Soldier-Genius

Late Major-General Wingate Was Always Looking For Adventure

The late Major General Lord Wingate, Britain's soldier-genius, was born at Naini Tal, 6,000 feet up in the Himalayas. He was educated in England and at forty he was one of the world's best-read generals. He always sought out broad horizons. When serving in Palestine, he spent his leave on a Jewish settlement and learned to speak, read and write Hebrew fluently. In the Sudan he mastered several Arabic dialects. The love of adventure ran deep in his blood. As a lieutenant, ordered to proceed from England to the Sudan, he crossed Europe via the Alps on a bicycle, recalls Charles J. Rollo. Later, he spent three months exploring the Libyan desert in search of the "Lost Oasis" mentioned in an ancient Arab ballad. In Palestine, Ethiopia and Burma, he demonstrated an uncanny knack for enlisting the support of the native population. In each of these countries, the co-operation he won from the natives resulted in an intangible intelligence system. In Ethiopia, thousands of wild hill tribesmen flocked to his banner. In Burma, loyal Burmese joined his expedition as guides and bearers, and many volunteers, fired by the success of his raiders, asked to be given arms. He became admirably known throughout northern Burma as "Lord Protector of the Pagodas."

GERMAN PENNY

A German penny, dated 1939, was discovered in the till of a retail shoe store at North Bay, Ont. On its face is depicted the Nazi eagle, standing on a laurel emblem wreath that encircles a swastika.

of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association will be held this year at Saskatoon. The meeting starts on Tuesday morning, June 20th. Seed growers and technical agriculturists from every province of Canada will be present.I strongly advise all farmers who can find the time to attend this important meeting. Interesting papers will be read and discussions will take place on matters that vitally concern seed, the raw material of all farmers.The Association was formed forty years ago by a very great man—
the late Dr. James Robertson, C.
M.G.—who had a vision that Canadian crops could be greatly improved in yield and quality, and so in value to farmers. It is a number of people would concentrate their efforts on producing high quality seed and in making it available at moderate prices to their fellow farmers.
The results have far exceeded Dr.
Robertson's hopes and expectations.The Association started with 93 seed growers, and today we find the rolls no less than 2,600 highly skilled men producing Foundation, Elite and Registered seed of every conceivable kind, variety and stock of crops, including cereals, field roots and garden vegetables.The amount of additional income brought to Canadian farmers by the efforts of the members is incalculable; certainly it runs into many millions of dollars.Summer Activities At O.S.A.In addition to the usual number of summer visitors, groups of interested guests will gather at the Olds School of Agriculture during June and July to attend field days and short courses.Of interest to all swine breeders will be the Advanced Registry Field Day to be held on June 24th. This will be followed on June 27th by the field day of the Alberta Holstein Friesian Association.The week beginning July 17 has been selected for the efficiency winners from the Junior Live Stock and Grain Clubs. About 150 boys and girls are expected for that week.The following week, commencing July 24th, has been set aside for the Girls' Clubs. Farm Women's Week will begin on July 31st and will continue for four days.These meetings are serving a very useful purpose in bringing together

Lone Pine Notes

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cipperley have received a cable stating that their son, Gnr. Lloyd Cipperley, had been wounded on active service.

Don't forget the Junior Red Cross dance and sale at Burnside school on Friday, June 16.

Mr. A. Spraggs and Mrs. O. Bitter and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. Coates.

There is a picnic and dance at Lone Pine, June 30, Rocky Mtn. Rangers supplying the music.

The June meeting of the Lone Pine W.I. was held at Mrs. Enoch Hughes' home, with 16 members and several visitors present. Mrs. B. Pross was tendered a hearty vote of thanks for her untiring help in all our handicraft work. Mrs. F. Ahlgren and Mrs. O. Bitter were named delegates to the Farm Women's Week in Olds, July 31st to August 3rd, and Mrs. W. Coates as delegate to convention on June 17th. Plans were completed for a picnic and dance for June 30. Mrs. Edna Dowell donated a woollen blanket and Mrs. Pross a second prize for a raffle on June 30. The draw was won by Mrs. F. Ahlgren, and Miss Myra Hughes prepared an interesting "song" contest which was won by Mrs. Swanson, tied with Mrs. E. Topley. Mrs. E. Hunter took the consolation. After the regular meeting Mrs. B. Woods kindly presented farewell gifts to Mrs. Wm. Lyman and Mrs. B. Pross who are leaving us for their long life members of our institute, and both will be greatly missed in our institute work. Mrs. "Glad Save the King" Mrs. H. hes and Myra served lunch.

PRICE CEILING

The old family budget is acting up quite a bit these days, and no wonder. Nearly everything you buy has hit the ceiling. But there is one thing you can still obtain at the old pre-war price—electricity. And you still get the same dependable pre-war service.

Like your own living costs our operating costs have increased tremendously, too. Materials and machinery are harder to get and cost more. Pay-rolls and taxes, and all the expenses of making electrical service available at your touch of a switch cost more today.

It's the careful planning of past years—the policy of building for the future, for emerhigh quality of electric service at pre-war rates.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Hush Money

— By —
WILLIAM A. ROSSI

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The silent house echoed the monotonous speaking of Grandpa's rocking chair. He rocked thoughtfully, puffing viciously on his aged corncob. For the fifth time in the last hour he looked up at the cuckoo clock on the wall. He winced at the slow advancement of the hands. In another couple of hours the annual Bazaar would be over, and then there'd be a whole year until the next one.

"Dagnabbit!" Gramp growled to himself. "Emma's kids is old 'nough not to need someone to mind 'em of an evening."

Yet, as much as Gramp wanted to go to the Bazaar he knew that Emma had set her heart on it, too. Gramp's son-in-law, Henry, intended to stay home, but at the last minute he called to say that he had to work overtime. Gramp took one look at Emma's expression of disappointment and grumped that he'd stay.

"If you don't intend to keep your word," Emma said, "let me know right now. You know how the neighbors complained about the children's howling last week when we stepped out and left them alone in the house for only a few minutes."

"Dagnabbit!" Gramp spumed. "When I was their age it didn't bother me none to be left alone in the dark. These frailty-cat kids nowadays—"

"I'll stay home, then," Emma said with a suffering sigh.

"Hush up and off with you!" Gramp snapped, unable to bear his daughter's look of martyrdom. And in fifteen minutes Emma was off.

The first hour was easy. Hazards weren't so important, anyway. Gramp kept telling himself. Besides, it was the same thing year after year. With the second hour, however, he began to reflect upon the past. The fun of poking around through the booths, the concert, the door prize, and the various contests that deepened the laugh wrinkles around Gramp's merry old eyes.

When the cuckoo derisively popped out at nine thirty Gramp jerked up with defiance and wobbled about the room until his rheumatic joints guaranteed stability. He started to get his coat and hat from the closet when he heard a wail from upstairs. He huffed and stamped an irate foot on the floor. Well, maybe it was just as well. If Emma saw him at the Bazaar she'd have a fit, probably make a scene in front of everyone.

Fifteen minutes more of waiting and Gramp's resigned attitude had once more been discarded. Caution was with the winds now. Besides, in that crowd Emma would never see him. Just a few minutes of poking around—for old time's sake. Gramp had his hat and coat on now. And then that wait again.

"Dagnabbit!" he growled, his glance wavering between the front door and the upper story. The noise increased. Gramp slammed down his hat with another "Dagnabbit!" and went upstairs. Five minutes later he came down again and donned his crumpled felt hat, a mischievous grin on his face. He tiptoed from the silent house.

Gramp bought his Bazaar ticket and received his door-prize stake. He cautiously peeped into the main hall. Soon he spied the flaming red hat that belonged to Emma. Gramp chuckled, then slunk around to the opposite side of the hall.

The next half hour was a simple man's paradise for Gramp. It was good to see old faces, familiar exhibits and hear laughing chatter. Nothing really exciting, but good wholesome fun.

And then the hall was suddenly dark. A man's voice came through the microphone on the stage. The door prize, Gramp hadn't given it any thought, so absorbed had he been. He stood up, and located the red hat again. He chorled to himself, for he was successfully keeping safe distance between himself and Emma. He'd leave shortly, getting home just before her. Everything was going smoothly.

The man called out a number. No one answered. He called it again. Gramp casually extracted his stub from his pocket, keeping one eye on Emma. Then Gramp glimpsed at the number on his ticket. He blinked, for he wasn't sure what number had been called. The man waited impatiently a second, then announced the number once more. Sure enough, Gramp had it.

He squirmed miserably. If he answered the call it meant Emma's nagging wrath for weeks. And if he kept quiet the door-prize would go elsewhere. The man on the stage started to reach in for another number.

"I got it!" squealed Gramp. He fought through the crowd toward the stage. He could feel Emma's eyes on him, could even hear her unspoken words whizzing against his ears.

"Fifty dollars to the lucky man!" the announcer cried over the applause. He handed five crisp tens to Gramp.

Gramp came down from the stage. Emma stomped up to him. "So!" she heaved.

Gramp was quick on the draw. He pecked off a ten-spot and thrust it at her. "Here!"

"Wh what's that for?" she gasped, a bright beam softening her anger. "Hush money."

Emma took it with pleased bewilderment, then glowered again. "Right the children they're probably howling at home. And no one there to hush them."

"Took care of that, too," Gramp replied quickly. "Gave 'em each a dime before I left. Hush money. The gambler turned out to be a mighty good investment," he chuckled, and disappeared in the crowd.

VITAL TO LIFE

A starving animal can live after a loss of nearly all its fat, one-half of its protein, and a great portion of its body weight, but a loss of only one-fifth of the water of the body is fatal.

Here a CWAC There a CWAC

War whoops and tribal feathers play no part in the life of C.W.A.C. Private Dorothy Bernard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bernard of St. John, N.B., despite the fact that she admits proudly that she is a full-blooded Iroquois Indian. Grand daughter of a chief, Dorothy is sure that she has lived a quiet, regular Canadian life. She is a graduate of a business college in Moncton, N.B., and worked as a secretary before her enlistment in March, 1941. When asked if her family had any particular tribal customs, Dorothy paused for a minute and then said, "I had a bear once. But Mother wouldn't let me keep it."

"We're so normal," she sighed.

Fashion.—All in all the CWACs seem pretty satisfied with their "Khaki" isometes. . . . pictures of the latest Paris models shown in British newspapers elicited merriment and scorn from Miss Canada Overseas. Paris point—out to its German captors that the well-dressed Parisienne may still carry on her head "flowers, birds, spring and the blue skies" but—"It would take more than Germans to make me wear that horticultural exhibit" giggled one irreverent CWAC. "Give me a number from Katon's catalogue," volunteered another, and all agreed. "When we see these, we're glad we're in the C.W.A.C."

Benton.—Molly has followed her sons to the battle front. Pte. Minnie Howe, C.W.A.C. of Winnipeg, at present stationed at Canadian Military Headquarters, London, England, was the third member of her family to cross the Atlantic in this war. Her sons, Harry and Tommy, both with the Canadian Army. A fourth member of the fighting family, June, is with the C.W.A.C. in Washington, D.C. Mrs. Howe is a cook and the Army is blessed, but the little family looks forward to the day when "Ma can bake an apple pie" for four.

Travel.—"The thumb is mightier than the arch" is an adage that has been adapted by Cpl. Molly Engler, C.W.A.C. of Invermere, B.C. Reputed to be the most widely travelled member of the Corps, Molly gave truth to this adage in 1939 when she embarked on a hitch-hiking tour that carried her so far off the tourist path that the sight of a European was a novelty. A member of the C.W.A.C. since 1943, Molly received her education in Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, France and Italy. She has spent time in every country of Europe and has visited extensively in North Africa. She is now employed at National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa.

INVISIBLE WIRE

Invisible platinum wire, so fine only its shadow can be seen, is being used experimentally in the General Electric Company's laboratory. The wire is 13,000,000ths of an inch thick. Approximately 25,000 strands would be needed to equal the cross-sectional area of a human hair.

NOW - VITAMIC RUBBER

FIRESTONE'S GREATEST CONTRIBUTION TO LONG TIRE LIFE AND MILEAGE

Firestone, pioneers of the balloon and high-speed tires, now make another contribution to advanced motoring. . . . VITAMIC RUBBER . . . for longer tire life and mileage.

It is a well-known fact that adding small amounts of metals, such as chromium and tungsten, to steel greatly increases the strength and durability of the alloy produced.

In a similar manner, it has been found by Firestone research that the intimate mixing with rubber of small amounts of a new scientific discovery, "Vitamin," improves long-sought properties to the rubber. As in the alloy steel, the new rubber compound . . . is greatly improved in strength, wear-ability, and resistance to heat and aging.

All Firestone tires are now made with Vitamc Rubber. This added extra value, together with Cam Dipping and Safety Locked Cords, is all the more reason why you should insist on Firestone tires when you obtain a Tire Ration Permit.

Hard To Sort Out

Nations Seem To Be Slightly Mixed In This War

The Empire Digest offers the following information:

There are now 33 United Nations and nine Axis Nations.

Germany is the only Axis Nation at war with all 33 United Nations.

None of the United Nations is at war with all nine Axis Nations.

Australia is the only United Nation to declare war on Vichy France.

The Fighting French are at war only with Germany and Japan.

India and Norway are at war only with Germany.

Brazil, India, Norway, Greece and Russia are the only United Nations not at war with Japan.

The United States is at war with Albania, but not Finland; Great Britain with Finland, but not Albania. Thus, although the United States and Great Britain are both fighting eight out of the nine Axis Nations, there is a difference in which ones.

Ration Controls

Restrictions Eased On Several Types Of Farm Machinery

Six types of new farm machinery and equipment have been removed from the ration list. It was announced by the prices board.

Additional articles which now may be sold without permits are: diamond harrow sections, flexible harrow sections, spring tooth harrow sections, cream separators, power sheep shearing machines and animal clippers, egg cleaners and brushes.

Increased production sufficient to meet demands were cited as reason for removal of ration controls.

FOR MOSQUITO BITES

A good refreshing treatment for itchy mosquito bites or poison ivy is to take a tepid bath in which cornstarch has been sprinkled and dissolved, and let water dry on skin to leave a thin film of soothing starch.

VANISHING VITAMIN

The vanishing vitamin is "C". It's the delicate member of the family . . . when the heat's on it blows! Take extra special care to keep brother "C" in good shape by not exposing him to heat for long. For instance when you add canned tomatoes or tomato juice to meat soup wait a short time before serving to do so.

If you are wondering what to give Dad for Father's Day, what is wrong with a good raincoat?

And even if it is always raining, try to keep looking on the sunny side. Remember, worry is the interest you pay when you borrow trouble

Dad doesn't see, these cold, damp June days, what keeps the girls from freezing; but then, he isn't supposed to

And as the little Egyptian boy said to the Pyramid, "Are you there, mummy?"

Hold Wiener Roast

More than eighty young people of the M.B.C. Sunday School gathered at the Swalm farm on the evening of Friday, June 9, when several ball diamonds were laid out in the pasture, and softball was enjoyed by many.

At sunset the group gathered at the base of a wooded slope, where a nice wood fire had been prepared. The winners and buns were passed and a good wiener roast was enjoyed, topped off by marshmallows and coffee.

As the fire was dying down, all joined in singing choruses led by their president, Miss Enith Hunsperger. The male quartette, composed of Dr. Seaman, Walter Snyder and the Sherrick Bros., rendered several selections. The evening's activities closed with a prayer of thanks for our many blessings, and a remembrance of the ones across the sea.

The group dispersed feeling that all had a very pleasant evening.
